

Paolo Del Giudice is a senior researcher at the Italian National Institute of Health, and adjunct professor of neural networks at the Physics Department of Rome University Sapienza. Physicist by training, he works on the theory and electronic implementation of neural models. On the subject he published over 35 journal papers and 30 conference papers and book chapters.